Mariner. 1 Paperback(s), 2009. soft. Book Condition: New. In his gripping third mystery, following A Grave in Gaza and the New Blood Dagger Award winner The Collaborator of Bethlehem, Omar Yussef journeys to Nablus with his family for the wedding of his policeman friend Sami Jaffari. When the son of the leader of the Samaritan community there is murdered, Omar is pulled into Sami's investigation. The victim worked for the Palestinian Authority and controlled hundreds of millions of dollars, now missing and the World Bank is threatening to cut off Palestinian aid if the money is not found. Omar and Sami must navigate through the warrens of the Nablus casbah and the secrets of the Samaritan people to find the killer and recover the funds before time runs out. "Rees makes it three for three with his latest Omar Yussef mystery. This time the Bethlehem history teacher is in strife-torn Nablus to attend the wedding of a family friend. Nablus is home to the small Samaritan community, which follows its ancient traditions in the midst of the ongoing violence between Palestinians and Israelis. Yussef, ever the historian, jumps at the chance to visit the Samaritan synagogue and learn more about their beliefs, but he is quickly engulfed in a murder investigation. One of the Samaritans, a young man who worked for Arafat ("the old president") and controlled millions of the leader's under-the-table money, has been murdered, and the funds are missing. Yussef throws himself into the daunting task of following the money and thus stopping the World Bank from cutting off aid to Palestine. Rees not only offers a perceptive look at complex international political issues but also helps us to understand those issues in the context of everyday lives of Palestinians attempting to dodge bullets coming in all directions (from Israelis...)
