Excerpt: . combat on August 5th, 1865, in and after passing Fort Morgan. The Hartford was the most exposed vessel of the Federal fleet. The Confederates served their guns faithfully in spite of the torrent of shrapnell, grape, and shell raining on them from the passing ships: they had, by dint of long practice, become fine gunners. The engagement between the fort and the Federal fleet, and the Federal fleet and Admiral Buchanan's little squadron, lasted from 7.6 A.m. till 10.10 A.m., fifteen times twelve minutes, and yet there was not a single vessel in Farragut's fleet (the Tecumseh, sunk by a torpedo, excepted) that could not have continued the action; or if Dog River bar and the obstructions had allowed, run up to the upper batteries, engaging these also. The sinking of a vessel by artillery-fire alone is a more difficult thing...
