One or more stars denote the Marcolini period. : m. and m. C-. THeroU invl: et-fcit. a-ijieCfse 1750. 2 Jepl: Dresden. Note. --Much misapprehension has arisen respecting the nick or cut (in the paste) across the mark (swords). One such cut signifies that the white china was sold as white, and therefore has been coloured in some other atelier. In some cases, however, this after-colouring is exceedingly clever, and has more the appearance of an old piece than one finished in the orthodox manner. Either one or more such nicks, not across the swords but above or below, signifies some defect in the piece, but these defects are sometimes so slight as to cause little or no difference in the value of the article so marked. Elbogen (bohemia). --Established in 1815 by M. Haidinger, but a factory of which little is known,...
