Indeed, the glory in these radiant sacred songs meld an art of high music with a nuanced love of the world unlike any we ve heard before. No matter your mood upon entering this world you ll soon be grateful, and enchanted. In any such house of praise, God herself must be grateful. Philip Schultz, Pulitzer Prize winning author of Failure and The God of Loneliness Grace Schulman, who has been called a vital and permanent poet (Harold Bloom), makes new the life she finds in other cultures and in the distant past. In Without a Claim, she masterfully encompasses music, faith, art, and history. The title poem alludes to the Montauk sachem who sold land without any concept of rights to property, and meditates on our own notion of ownership: No more than geese in flight, shadowing the lawn, / cries piercing wind, do we possess these fields, / given the title, never the dominion. She traces the illusion of rights, from land to objects, from...
