Brand New Book  Print on Demand .Excerpt from The Link, Vol. 2: August, 1944 We re not putting talking above living. The latter must always come first. And we know perfectly well there is a great host of genuinely Christian men and women in the service fellows and girls who are keeping their standards high, and who refuse to trail their spiritual banners in the muck just because they are away from home and they might do a bit of hell-raising without anybody being the wiser. Yet comes the plaint and often from some fellow wistfully hoping to get some assistance in. soul adjustment from one he knows to be Christian - that Christian men keep their religion too much to themselves. And, they say further, though you can whip up a bull session on anything else, from the art of dating a girl to the importance of geopolitics in Afghanistan, you have one dickens of at time promoting a sane and natural discussion of God and his dealings with the human soul. That is a stinging indictment of us who call ourselves Christian! If its true, we have a notion that it is just this hush-hush attitude toward religion, on the part of those who have experienced it, that has done more to rob Christianity of converts than all the atheists put together. Of course we know there are a few who maintain that one s religious experience is too sacred a matter to talk about as one talks about the war, the weather or the wonders of love. These hold that a fellow should keep his religion to himself, locked in the innermost recesses of his soul, lest it become besmirched...
